

ABSTRACT

A system and method is provided for configuring equipment to achieve a desired result and includes a simulation engine for receiving the desired result and outputting at least one parameter setting for operating the equipment to achieve the desired result. Also included is a consumable knowledge base for receiving the at least one parameter setting and outputting a consumable selection for use in the equipment to achieve the desired result.